The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIFTS WHICH WON'T PERISH All through the year, as well as at Christmas, we parents like to bestow gifts upon our children which won't perish. We do so as we cultivate in them, from early babyhood, good habits of health, selfreliance and responsibility; as we engender in them a strong desire and readiness to be thoughtful and considerate of the rights and feelings of others; as we build in them a good foundation of character and citizenship. FROM ME TO YOU

Last evening during the heaviest of the rain a car pulled up in front of the house then another car and then a bus and then four or five cars . . all filled with young men and women from our local High School. Out they came to the sidewalk and under the direction of Robert Duff they sang for us some beautiful Christmas Carols . . . A capella Choir you don't know how much we appreciated your visit . . . and we are going to say again . . . there is no organization in New Castle or surrounding territory that can compare with you in talent and spirit. Again may we say thanks a million for the visit.

A small chap (about two and a half years old) was taken down town to visit Santa Claus. Upon seeing the old gent for the first time he didn't say a word to his parents but climbed right up on Santas lap and whispered something in his ear. When the lad was all through he climbed down and said he was ready to go. Upon arriving home his parents asked "Johnny, what did you tell Santa?" . . "I'm not going to tell" said Johnny . . . "Santa knows" . . . and to this very moment Johnny's parents can't find out what he told Santa . . Lets hope for this family that the disappointment

Today is the last day that one might register in the Christmas lighting contest . . . all coupons should be in before midnight. A report from the judges headquarters informs us that the judging will take place Friday evening if the weather permits... So be ready folks, be ready.

The popularity contest for Christmas decorations will start today. A coupon will appear in this paper . . . you read it carefully . . . visit all the Christmas displays of private individuals or schools and then write in the name and address of the display you think s'ould win. Five dollars and a twenty-light star are the prizes. This part of the contest is entirely up to the public . . . votes are the deciding factor.

Tomorrow is the twenty-first day of December . . . also the shortest day of the year. Meaning to us a wedding anniversary and that Christmas comes too soon afterwards. Oh well, wonder if there will be snow on the ground Christmas morning?
